

Graduate Studies in Comparative Literature, Literary and Cultural Theory, Continental Philosophy

The Centre for Comparative Literature and Cultural Studies is an interdisciplinary research centre, specialising in Comparative Literature, Literary and Cultural Theory, and Continental Philosophy. CCLCS offers the PhD degree by research only and by research and coursework, an MA degree by research, an MA in Critical Theory by coursework and research and a PG Diploma (Research) in Critical Theory. The postgraduate subjects taught cover the work of critical and cultural theorists such as Adorno, Benjamin, Bourdieu, Deleuze, Derrida, Foucault, Irigaray, Jameson, Kristeva, Said, Spivak, Williams and Žižek.

CCLCS provides the following resources to candidates enrolled in its postgraduate programs:

- Regular research seminars
- Postgraduate workstations (Monash Research Graduate School & Faculty of Arts)
- Financial support for conferences and fieldwork
- Colloquy a fully-refereed postgraduate journal
- An annual Postgraduate Colloquium

Researchers in the Centre have strong interests in the following fields:

- Comparative European and East Asian literary studies
- Romanticism, modernism, postmodernism and the avant-grade
- Utopia, dystopia and science fiction
- Literature, philosophy and aesthetics, especially Benjamin, Blanchot, Deleuze, Derrida, Levinas, Lyotard, Nancy, Rancière, Lacoue-Labarthe
- Literature, politics and society, especially Baudrillard, Bourdieu, Foucault, Jameson and Williams
- Ecocriticism, ecophilosophy, ecofeminism and ecotheology
- Culture and ecology in Australia, culture and environmental catastrophe, ecocriticism and European thought
- Critical theory, post-structuralist literary theory and semiotics, narrative studies, literary hermeneutics

Deadline for APA and MGS scholarship applications:
31 October 2009.

For further details contact:

Professor Andrew Milner, Graduate Coordinator,

Tel: (03) 9905 2979 Email: Andrew.Milner@arts.monash.edu.au

or visit www.arts.monash.edu.au/cclcs/pgrad/

CRICOS Provider: Monash University 00008C

MONASH University
Arts