

A trans-Indigenous and cross-Tasman scholarly dialogue.

Plenary Panel in the South Pacific ACLALS Speaker Series 2021

Join Associate Professor Selina Tusitala Marsh (University of Auckland) and Dr Jeanine Leane (Melbourne University), in a trans-Indigenous and cross-Tasman pair of papers and dialogue on Indigeneity and literature in these distinct but connected spaces.

Dr Selina Tusitala Marsh is an Auckland-based Pacific poet and scholar of Samoan, Tuvaluan, English, Scottish and French descent.

Dr Jeanine Leane is a Wiradjuri writer, teacher and academic from southwest New South Wales. After a longer teaching career, she completed a doctorate in Australian literature and Aboriginal representation and a postdoctoral fellowship at the Australian Centre for Indigenous History at the Australian National University.

Thursday 11th of February 2021 – 10–11:30am (AEST) [12pm New Zealand time]

Online via Zoom (please RSVP via Eventbrite to be sent the link).

<https://www.eventbrite.com.au/e/south-pacific-aclals-online-seminar-1-transindigenous-cross-tasman-tickets-138711434635>

An event organised by the South Pacific Association for Commonwealth Literature and Language Studies.